Sinopec partners with Matt Stone Racing for Ipswich Supercars Round

Cameron Hill will carry the bold red colours of Sinopec Fuels and Lubricants at the upcoming Ipswich round of the 2025 Repco Supercars Championship, with the brand partnering as naming rights sponsor of the #4 Matt Stone Racing Chevrolet Camaro.

Held at Queensland Raceway from August 8–10, Hill's #4 Camaro will debut a striking Team SINOPEC livery, showcasing the iconic brand as it ramps up its presence in Australia and fuels its commitment to innovation and performance.

"It's a huge privilege to welcome Sinopec onboard for the Ipswich event," said MSR Team Owner, Matt Stone.

"Their global footprint and expertise in fuels and lubricants align perfectly with the high-performance demands of Supercars racing. The new red livery looks incredible, and I can't wait for it to hit the track as Team SINOPEC."

The Sinopec Group is the world's fifth largest company on the planet (Forbes Global Fortune 500), second-largest Petrochemical Company and the World's largest Base Oil Producer, supplying over 700 variants of oils for every application imaginable

Sinopec Fuels and Lubricants brings cutting-edge R&D and rigorous quality standards to the automotive, mining, industrial, transport and marine sectors, providing outstanding performance every time.

This partnership marks an exciting new chapter for both Matt Stone Racing and Sinopec in the Supercars arena.

"We're thrilled to partner with Cameron Hill and the MSR team at such a fan-favourite round," said Colin Osborne, National Sales Manager, ILD-SINOPEC

"The Supercars platform offers a dynamic way to showcase our premium products and commitment to performance.

"We're looking forward to seeing Team SINOPEC light up the track at Ipswich."

The Queensland Raceway round makes an exciting return to the Supercars calendar, and Hill will be aiming to convert this exciting new partnership into on-track success.
